Key issues discussed:
Position statement on privacy and confidentiality The NMHCCF has identified privacy and confidentiality as a matter of great concern for mental health consumers and carers. In 2008 the NMHCCF conducted a survey entitled “Confidentially and Information Sharing with Families and Carer in Mental Health”. Following from this, the NMHCCF commissioned an Issues Paper to further examine this topic and identify examples of best practice and potential solutions and ways forward. The NMHCCF has since developed a Position Statement, Privacy, Confidentiality & Information Sharing – Consumers, Carers & Clinicians , to highlight the issues surrounding privacy and confidentiality in the Australian mental health system for consumers, carers and clinicians. Post meeting note: Senator Claire Moore (QLD) launched the Position Statement and Issues Paper at the TheMHS conference in Adelaide on Thursday 8 September 2011. The Position Statement and Issues Paper are available on the NMHCCF website - www.nmhccf.org.au .
Position statement on psychosocial disability As part of its submission to the Productivity Commission’s inquiry into Disability Care and Support, the NMHCCF has developed a Position Statement, Unravelling Psychosocial Disability Associated with Mental Health Conditions , currently in press. The Position Statement will be an important reference for mental health consumers and carers, policy makers and service providers in the mental health and disability sectors and in the broader community. It is anticipated that the Position Statement will be launched by Senator Jan McLucas at Parliament House on 22 November 2011
